

2014 Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant (JAG) Local Formula Program Award

Preliminary Application Narrative for Albemarle County, Virginia

Supporting Community Policing Efforts

In keeping with the Justice Assistance Grant (JAG) Program intentions for prevention and control of crime, Albemarle County plans to use these funds to support overtime activities for community policing projects and activities by the Police Department. Many of these activities and projects would not occur without this funding. Budgeting and funding for the Police Department overtime activities are quite restricted due to other overtime demands. Overtime is closely monitored and often restricted. In addition, staffing is short due to expanding needs for services and the Police Department's incremental implementation of a GeoPolicing model of policing that involves more citizen contact and engagement related to more in-depth problem-solving activities and projects.

Prevention, public education, and public relations activities have been reduced by the staffing shortage. The Police depend on grant funding for providing most of these types of activities. With GeoPolicing, the focus on problem recognition and intervention has increased, but limited available time restricts involvement. Patrol Officers do what they can, but developing problem description and intervention strategies require research, documentation, coordination, focused effort for a considerable time, and follow-up. Such complex special assignments occur primarily through overtime funding. Problem solving projects, National Night-Out, community safety activities such as bike patrols, and the Citizens' Police Academy are the planned uses for these grant funds.

The County has used previous Justice Assistance Grants to provide the following community support projects and activities.

- Operation Safe Holiday with increased patrol, assistance and enforcement in shopping malls and high traffic areas from Thanksgiving to New Years;

- Toy Lift to assist with the safety and collection of donated toys for needy children at a high profile community event;
- Several ongoing Neighborhood Coalitions including a trailer park, 3 Section 8 housing subdivisions, and a community of rural poverty, that bring together residents, community and government services, police, property managers and owners to improve the quality of life in these neighborhoods;
- National Night-Out where groups of Police personnel visited several Neighborhood Watch get-togethers with equipment and K9 demonstrations along with educational literature;
- Bike Patrol activities in neighborhoods and shopping malls, at the County Fair, at Foxfield Horse Races, at parks and on walking paths, at parades and festivals, and bicycle rodeos;
- Community Supervision Program for monitoring people on restricted probation or parole;
- Operation Spring Cleaning as a concerted effort to serve criminal warrants;
- Park Leash Law Enforcement to reduce the nuisance of loose dogs in County parks;
- Gun Violence Project working with ATF Agents to reduce the presence and use of illegal weapons in high incident areas;
- Southwood Safety Project to improve the safety and community resources available in a poorly maintained trailer park;
- Citizens' Police Academy to educate the citizenry about the police and police work;
- Working with apartment managers to provide training towards developing a neighborhood safety certification program with annual inspections;
- Planning and executing a range of problem solving and preventive patrols, including foot patrols, bike patrols, saturation patrols and stake-outs; and
- Organizing and participating in numerous community events providing safety and prevention information and referrals along with equipment displays and demonstrations.

Such services will be diminished or ended without supportive external funding such as this grant program.

We welcome any comments or questions about this preliminary application for the use of these grant funds. Please contact Dr. Jonathon Earl with the Albemarle County Police Department at 972-4036 or earlj@albemarle.org with any questions, comments or suggestions.
